NEW ECONOMIC WORLD ORDER

Guest Lecturer

Pinchas Landau

8.00pm Sunday 29 January

Ir Yamim Community Center

Pinchas Landau was born in London and educated at the London School of Economics. He is one of Israel's leading independent analysts and commentators on the country's economic and financial affairs. He has contributed articles to many international newspapers, including the Wall Street Journal, along with numerous professional publications.

Pinchas also publishes the Landau Report, a unique newsletter service that analyzes economic, business and financial trends in Israel, as well as tracking Israeli and regional geo-political affairs since 1996.

In his lecture, Pinchas Landau will talk about Trying to Understand, Cope With, Survive, and Even Prosper in the New Economic World Order. These topics will include the changing role of central banks, government intervention and manipulation, the decline of pension systems, banks and insurance companies, the obsolescence of traditional investing rules, and possible investment solutions to safely navigate the new and ever-changing global economic landscape.
